

CODE EXPERT POINTS WAY TO SOLVE SURF DEATH MYSTERY

SEEKS FREEDOM AGAIN

Constance Coullidge Altherton, de Jumilhac Rogers, former Boston society girl, thrice wedded, who is preparing to obtain a Paris divorce decree against her present mate, Elliot Rogers, of San Francisco.

COOLIDGE GIRL TO DROP NO. 3

Constance Coullidge Altherton de Jumilhac Rogers, Boston society girl who sought happiness in three marriages, is preparing to end her third as she terminated the other two—in the Paris divorce court.

Chatterbox from Paris today announced that she expects a decree in February from Elliot Rogers of San Francisco, brother of Cameron Rogers, the author, and nephew of Charles Fernald, Chicago banker. They were wed in Mrs. Buchanan, Cal., in February, 1929.

British Leaders Defy Tariff War

London, Dec. 8 (AP)—At least one newspaper predicted today that Great Britain is "on the verge of a tariff war." There are rumors also of a plan for a Franco-Belgian economic union, similar to the now abandoned Austro-German customs pact, as the British Parliament considered the question of a 100 per cent duty on vegetables and fruits as part of the new tariff program.

12 Routed by Fire in Roxbury

Twelve persons, including several small children, were driven to the street in their night clothes early today when a fire, caused by a defective chimney, broke out in a three-family wooden dwelling at 11 Sachem st., Roxbury, causing $3500 damage.

Paul Conway and family, residing on the first floor, John Conway and family on the second floor, and Patrick Nolan and family on the third floor, were the persons driven out.

Maynard Wins Awards

Forrest Hartin, ardent Maynard high school, has been awarded one of the 100 college scholarships given by the International Harvester Company. Hartin won the award through his work in raising poultry.

Laramie, Wyo., Dec. 8 (AP)—Students of the University of Wyoming have struck in protest against "arbitrary regulations" alleged to have been cast by Dr. A. G. Crane, the president, upon youths and co-eds he found in motor cars parked near the scene of a school dance.

The strike was called by a vote of 42 to 35 at a mass meeting after the meeting, C. Eugene Cron, editor of the Branding Iron, student publication, said Dr. Crane had told him he believed he was fully justified in investigating the conduct of those attending the dance. It was held in the school gymnasium.

VICTIM LIVED IN CAMBRIDGE, IS BELIEF

Yardley Says Press Hot Iron on Cryptogram Found on Woman's Body

War-famed cryptographers who wrestled from puzzling papers the secrets of spies during the World War, sought today to solve the puzzle in the death of Boothbay Harbor's mystery woman, believed now to have been a former resident of Cambridge.

According to Maj. Herbert O. Yardley, famous code expert and former head of the United States Department of Cryptography, the Maine drowning victim's secret will come out when the letters attached to her waist is heated and pressed upon the mysterious paper she carried.

FIGURES ARE 'BLINDING'

Although Maj. Yardley, in Hollywood, had not seen a photostatic copy of the paper found in the mystery woman's effects, he declared the letters and numerals visible on the paper to be blinding and said that the real message would be disclosed when a hot iron was applied to the paper.

In the opinion of Col. J. C. Moore, chief signal officer of the First Corps Area, station in Boston, the strange paper found is couched in a code known as "Hollywood." "However, we'll need the original before making any decision," Col. Moore said.

He was told that a photostatic copy of the original was being sent to Boston by Sheriff Arthur Greenleaf of Boothbay Harbor.

CRYPTOGRAM IN HAND

The strange cryptogram was found in a dress shield in a handbag attached, with an electric flask, to the belt of the woman when her body was found.

Medical examination today showed that the woman never had a child, and this dispelled a clue which led to belief that she was Florence Randen, formerly of Cambridge, Mass. The latter, who had at least one child, lived in a summer place near Hendrick's Road Light in West Southport 30 years ago.

Brookline Pastor to Quit School Board

Rev. Abbott Peterson, chairman of the Brookline school committee, will not be a candidate for reelection to the board next March when his term expires, the clergyman declared today at a luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club in Hotel Brookline.

Rev. Mr. Peterson has served on the school board for 13 years. He is also chairman of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, before going to Brookline he was chairman of the Lancaster school committee.

OLD WORCESTER HOTEL BURNS

Worcester, Dec. 8—Fire, of undetermined origin, caused damage estimated at $1000 to the old Hay State Hotel at Main and Exchange sts. here early today.

The blaze broke out in the third floor and was discovered by Arthur Dumas, switchboard operator at police headquarters.

The flames had broken through the roof when firemen arrived, but they confined the blaze to the two upper stories. The second floor and several stores in the first floor suffered heavy damage from water.

The hotel building is owned by Francis H. Dewey. It has been closed as a hotel since November 16.

CRIMSON RAPS 'WILL TO WIN'

Pacific Coast football, with its "determination to win at all costs," was attacked today by the Harvard Crimson, the undergraduate daily.

In an editorial commenting upon the imprisonment of a Southern California squad member who had been charged with the murder of a player on Notre Dame, the Crimson stated:

"In the present case that determination has revealed itself in a ruthless professionalism which has not scrupled even to cast an implicit insult at its football rival."

The implication that Notre Dame was not unwilling to bribe a member of the Southern California squad was considerably nullified by the "Tropics Victory," the Crimson continued.

The attitude of the university authorities regarding the affair is condemned.

"In an atmosphere where football is considered the central interest of college life, it is probably bound to be a regrettable but minor blunder. . . . This is not first in the line of things, but it is a blunder on the Pacific Coast with an exaggerated seriousness."

Diamond Case Put Off

Troy, N. Y., Dec. 8 (AP)—The trial of Jack Lewis, Diamond gangster, charged with a kidnapping charge growing out of the Grover Cleveland case in the Catalina mountains, was postponed today until Thursday of this week.

Cloth That Bound Bay State Woman Fails to Stir Powers; "Love Photos" in the Court

Clarkburg, W. Va., Dec. 8—A noose was dangled in front of Harry F. Powers today and the man on trial for his life squirmed.

The circle of web belting was produced by Dr. Leroy C. Goff, coroner, who said he had found it knotted around the neck of Mrs. Dorothy Presler Lemke of Northboro, Mass., for whose murder, after luring to his garage, Powers is on trial for his life.

At the opening session of the trial yesterday Prosecutor Will C. Morris put the small-town Chasnovs, within the shadow of the gallows by asking the jury for the death penalty.

Powers had shown an emotion that, but for the fact that he was shown him today seemed to cause him some uneasiness.

AT DEATH HE SMILES

A minute later, however, he had dropped back into his room yesterday—that of a bland, gun-hewer, who observed a drama which seemed to bore him.

"Had the strap been tied tightly around the victim's neck?" Morris asked.

"Yes, tightly enough to have caused death," the coroner replied.

Powers smiled slightly. He displayed no interest when the coroner later held up a strip of canvas and told how it had been used to bind the victim.

Powers, wearing a blue serge suit and tortoise shell glasses, looked brazenly at this later strangling exhibit.

Dr. Goff was next asked to describe the defendant.

"He is a fair, smooth-faced, stocky, rather muscular, five-foot eight inches tall and weighs about 170 pounds."

ANYBODY KNOW HIM?

Berlin, Dec. 8—Adolf Hitler, leader of Germany's Nazis, who has already mapped the course he will take when his party attains power, is arranging an armistice with the Vatican.

The Austrian Government today granted him a transport visa to go to Budapest, Hungary, from which it is indicated, he plans to travel to Rome where he will see the Pope.

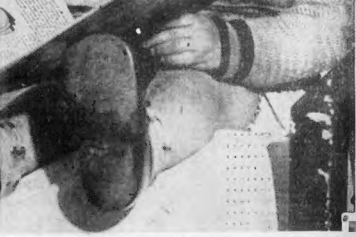

The Catholic Central party here will not consider a coalition with the Hitlerites until the Nazis make peace with the Vatican.

Hitler's party scored all along the line in Sunday's elections in Wurttemberg, belated results showed today.

At Ulm they captured 7 seats; at Heidenheim, 3; at Heilbronn, 2; at Stuttgart, 2; at Tübingen, 2.

Too Quick for Brother

Chicago, Dec. 8 (AP)—Harry B. Steer, 40, president of the Street-Chaffin Lumber Co., shot himself while his brother had gone out of the room to telephone.

McKnight of Boston, abandoned him in a Baltimore hotel room. He's about two years old. He has light hair, dark brown eyes and a fair complexion. A small growth under his lower lip may aid in identification.

If you know this little fellow, call the City Editor, Boston Evening American, Liberty 1000, and solve a mystery that police of Boston and Baltimore are trying to unravel. A woman, about 26, who registered as Mrs. J. H.

LIQUOR BARONS SCOFF AT LAWS IN LAWRENCE

By THE MARKED REPORTER

The Lawrence barons have scoffed at the prohibition, and not one of them has had to pay the price.

They have danced their way to riches, but not one has had to pay the price.

Why? Because of the loopholes they found, and the loopholes they made in the law.

One of these loopholes—and a big one—is, since enough for the whole of the "big seven" in an evening through the streets, with all their speakeasy agents, collectors and other relatives, threatening big business commonly known as "taking the rap."

It has made the courts a laughing stock among the liquor gang; it has kept the rum running in high, wide and handsome with the prohibitionists.

As a means of avoiding going to jail, the "take the rap" practice has been of more value to the bootleggers than anything else except the complacent attitude of the local police.

Interested in finding out how the syndicate could operate on an enterprise and business over an entire decade, I directed part of my investigation to official records.

I found that on no occasion during the whole period of prohibition to date has any one of the "big seven" behind the rum industry in Lawrence been sentenced to the courts. Only on rare occasions have they been before the courts at all.

A long list of cases in which they have been fined, although the fines raised were repeatedly the same, showed that "taking the rap" was a well developed art.

By making the rap a method of protesting the higher-ups by giving the courts only first offenders to deal with.

FINE THE PENALTY

A first offender is not jailed but fined, and men can easily be found who are willing and eager to accept a soft berth sitting around a table or speakeasy waiting for the raids that the best regulated liquor dispensaries have to undergo from time to time.

I found evidence of many instances where the owner of a rum joint was actually present and in charge of his place when a federal raid occurred.

While the raiders broke down barred doors and rigger blockades, he simply slipped from behind the bar and took up the role of customer before the government agents entered. The regular bar-tender masqueraded with him, leaving the man hired to "take the rap" behind the bar with a grin and a nod.

In numerous cases the authorities have declared in open court that the men arrested were not the real owners, and have named the real owner who has remained successful, because of insufficient evidence.

With the "take the rap" man standing in the prisoner's dock and pleading guilty to the offense charged—as a first offender—there is little for the court to do but accept his plea.

'BLUEBEARD' TERRIFIED

The coroner, 170 pounds, said the corpse, large and small, was found in the street, lying on a vacant seat. There were hundreds in line from dawn.

The pressure became so great that two store windows were broken.

PHOTOGRAPHS IDENTIFIED.

Floyd Montgomery, photographer, assistant, and Floyd Sayre, his employer, identified several photographs of Powers and Mrs. Lemke.

The films showed pictures of Powers and Mrs. Lemke, taken en route to Clarkburg from North Boston.

In the photographs Mrs. Lemke was wearing the same dress in which she was found slumped over the seat.

The next witness was Carl Southey, who detected the body in the Park Ridge (13) police had requested the arrest of Powers, alias Cornelius Posen, in connection with the disappearance of Mrs. Lemke.

He told of the finding of the body, and how he found Powers' Quest Bell garage.

When he saw the property on which the garage is located, Mrs. Lemke Powers, wife of Powers, and her sister, Mrs. Lemke, were identified.

"Mrs. Lemke Powers, wife of Powers, and her sister, Mrs. Lemke, were identified as his name, told the bank judge by a telephone company employee.

MRS. LEMKE.

Southern said he communicated with Worcester (Mass.) police, who revealed that Mrs. Lemke had left Northern with Powers.

He at once set out to find household effects in letters of Mrs. Lemke in both the murder garage and the city hall of Powers.

Producing the checked pieces of a handbook on the Mechanics Savings Bank and Worcester, Mass., Detective Southern told how he had found them in the ashes of a fire.

7 'NUDISTISTS' IN POLICE NET

New York, Dec. 8 (AP)—Seven women and 17 men were arrested to appear in court today to explain the activities of a "7th avenue gymnasium" known as "The Heart of New York."

Police who forced their way into the place said many of those arrested were without clothes and were engaged in exhibitions.

Discovery of what is called a nudist society just off Broadway resulted from an anonymous telephone tip. At the gymnasium the officers found literature of the American League of Physical Culture, listing 250 members.

The league's aim, as set forth in the literature, is:

"The cultivation of physical, mental and social health through exercise and life under natural conditions shared in by both sexes and all ages, and the education of the public in regard to our methods and ideals."

Hospital Flames Menace Many Lives

Monkton, N. H., Dec. 8 (AP)—A fire which broke out in the Jordan Memorial Sanatorium at River Glade early today destroyed the nurses residence, which also houses the main kitchen, dining room and store room, and several three pavilions occupied by patients.

Neighbors quickly gathered from their homes to help the staff fight the fire and care for patients. Fire apparatus from Monkton, 20 miles away, raced to the sanatorium in time to extinguish the blaze after it had spread to the main infirmary building.

Damage was estimated at $15,000. The 120 patients suffered a mild effect. The sanatorium was established by Mrs. J. C. Jordan, wife of a wealthy Boston merchant.

Police station used as a "graft quarters" for the death of Mrs. Lemke.

"I went to his house," he said, "and Mrs. Powers came to the door. When I told her what I wanted she bolted into the house. Come here, Harry."

"When Powers appeared and I told him he was under arrest, he asked me where my warrant was. I told him Chicago police had it."

"He said, 'It's a funny law that lets you arrest me without a warrant.' Then he disappeared into the house. I went after him and took him in charge."

On cross-examination, Attorney General, I did not try to bring out that Powers vanished into the house only to put on his shoes, but Southern said he saw him and his shoes on.

J. E. Mear, express agent at Fairmount, said he recalled that he received two trunks from Northampton, Mass., which he turned over to Powers. The trunks were identified as belonging to Mrs. Lemke.

M. Nugan, another express agent, confirmed the receipt of two trunks by Powers under the name of Cornelius Posen.

'Bluebeard' Is Called 'Confirmed Atheist'

Clarkburg, W. Va., Dec. 8 (AP)—Harry F. Powers is a confirmed atheist, a fellow prisoner said in the county jail, said today.

Powers' fellow prisoner said that when Powers was examined at the county jail on Aug. 30 by Dr. Edwin Meyer, physician, who pronounced Powers sane, the defendant denied any religious belief.

I have an interest in religion. I called a minister only to get out of the agony I was in," Powers was referring to the visit of the Rev. T. E. Garner, pastor of the First Baptist church, summoned to the jail August 28 after officers gridded the accused killer.

LAVAL IS BEATEN ON TARIFF IN CHAMBER

Paris, Dec. 8 (AP)—Premier Laval's government was defeated by a vote of 325 to 261 in the chamber of deputies today on a proposal to levy an import tax of two per cent on raw materials, four per cent on partially manufactured goods and six per cent on manufactured products.

It did not propose a question of confidence, however. The finance committee of chambers approved today an appropriation of 1,350,000 francs ($1,240,000) for the 1932-33 naval construction program.

NEW ECONOMY PLAN IS READY IN GERMANY

Berlin, Dec. 8 (AP)—Germany will know tonight what new economy plan is to be imposed upon the people in the government's latest emergency decree when President von Hindenburg will sign sometime during the day.

Its details have not been officially divulged but some of the provisions have leaked out and these indicate the decree will tap the nation's last resources to carry over the winter.

It is 46 pages long, the longest of any of the 50 or more which have preceded it and it constitutes a determined effort to bring down the cost of living and to lower the wage level. Its enforcement will be in the hands of Burgomaster Carl Goerdeler of Leipzig, who will have far-reaching powers to reduce the cost of public services in all departments.

It is promised strenuous efforts will be made to see to it that wages are not lowered unless there is a simultaneous reduction in the cost of necessities.

The turnover tax is expected to go up from 35 per cent to 2 per cent. Steel and iron prices probably will be cut about 15 per cent and freight rates from 5 to 15 per cent.

HUNGER ARMY ESCORTED OUT

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—Shivering in the cold, 1500 demonstrators jammed into trucks and automobiles today for a long drive back to their widely separated homes.

They carried with them the unheard petitions that they had insisted upon delivering personally to the President and to Congress.

More than a score of the vehicles in which they came had driven away without them, and for the return journey they were crowded into the vehicles that remained until every inch of space was occupied. In some cases men were forced to stand for their long journey home.

But there were shouts of "We'll be back again" as the caravan rumbled away.

Police escorted them to the District of Columbia line. Despite the cold, some still sang their marching songs.

Before the caravans departed bunches of bananas, baskets of apples and loaves of bread were distributed. The marchers had been routed out early and given breakfast.

LEGATION AID IS 'MISSING'

Washington, Dec. 8 (AP)—The State Department is considering dismissal of Christian Gross, second secretary of the American legation at Ottawa, for failure to report at his post from a leave of absence.

On the "absent without leave" list five weeks, he was allowed in the off to attend a case in Chicago where he lives, in which he was judged the father of the youngest child of his former wife. She was formerly Virginia Harrison, daughter of the former Governor General of the Philippines.

The foreign service officer had sought a Chicago court ruling as to whether his youngest child, born after he secured a divorce, should participate in a $1,000,000 trust fund of which he was executor and which had come from his former wife's family.

San Francisco Board Asks Modification

San Francisco, Dec. 8 (INS)—Without a dissenting vote the San Francisco Board of Supervisors today passed a resolution to memorialize Congress for modification of the Volstead act to permit manufacture and sale of light wines and beers. The resolution read:

"That the majority of the citizens of San Francisco favor modification of the prohibitive laws, to permit sale, distribution and consumption of beverages with an increased alcoholic content."

CHRISTMAS OPPORTUNITIES FOR BOSTON GOODFELLOWS

HERE ARE SOME MORE Christmas "Opportunities" for the Goodfellows of Greater Boston. Each day a list of appeals will be printed by the Evening American in conjunction with its Christmas Basket Fund. Goodfellows are asked to read these appeals and investigate those they wish to help. Addresses will be given by calling the American Christmas Basket Editor, Liberty 4000.

CASE No. 19

I want to know if you could send us a Christmas basket. My mother is dead, and my father is not working. There is four children, three girls and one boy. I would like very much if you could send us one.

This little boy lives in Boston. Anyone wishing to investigate the case may call or write the Christmas Basket Fund Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 19.

CASE No. 21

Would you please send me a dinner for Christmas, as my husband hasn't worked for six months. There are four in the family, and we will not have any dinner if you forget us. You may come and investigate if you wish, as we are very poor and need at present. We would be very grateful for any kindness you would show us.

This mother lives in Boston. Anyone wishing to investigate the case may call or write the Christmas Basket Fund Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 21.

CASE No. 26

I am in need of a Christmas Basket and clothing very bad. We have 11 children in my house and they are all out of work. They all want to eat as I am afraid they won't have much to eat, and clothing for the coming Christmas, unless some kind person would help us. I wrote you people last year and I appreciate you people for what you have sent me and I hope you will not forget me.

CASE No. 30

I have heard that you are giving Christmas baskets away to the poor. I am a young girl writing this letter. I have an awful time. I have been sick for a year and six months and still am. My father is not working and we have 11 in the family. I have a brother of 16 who has no shoes and he has been sick over a week. We have no coal or wood to keep warm for the winter. My dear sister has no sweater or gloves or stockings to keep them. I have stayed without food for days, just bread, but my sisters and brothers are too young to stay without food. So let you do give Christmas baskets please don't forget us. And if you do give us a basket I wish to know the name of the man or woman who is doing it for us. So I could thank them for their kindness to my family. I will thank them with all my heart and soul. My poor dear mother is always crying because she has nothing to give us to eat. I try hard to let her cheer up but in my heart I feel the same as her. I am always fainting because I don't eat. My dear mother does not know I am writing this letter. I do not want to disappoint her if we do not get any. I am crying because my sisters are cold. I hope you will help me. This girl lives in Boston. Anyone wishing to investigate the case may call or write the Christmas Basket Fund Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 30.

CASE No. 29

I am a mother of seven children and my husband has been out of work for some time. I am expecting another next month and I wish some kind person would give me some baby clothes and food. Of course we need everything we can get, food and bed clothes to keep warm. My health is not so good just now but I keep going on account of the children. I do hope someone will find me and help me through this hard time. I will surely feel my pride hoping to get a basket and some fuel to give them happiness.

This woman lives in Brighton. Anyone wishing to investigate the case may call or write the Christmas Basket Fund Editor, Liberty 4000, and ask for Case No. 29.

CASE No. 31

Just a few lines to ask you if you will help my little family and myself for Christmas, as my husband is in the hospital, and there are eight children—girls, 15, 8, 6, 18 months, boys, 15, 11, 6, 2. Anything such as clothing or anything will be appreciated. I wish you a Merry Christmas, as I know it won't be very merry for us unless someone will help us with a Christmas dinner. I am very handy in making men help my little ones.

Catholicism in Mexico

War on Y. M. C. A.

Mexico City, Dec. 8 (AP)—A motion picture of priests and lay Catholics, to wage a campaign against the Young Men's Christian Association and other Christian organizations brought to Mexico from the United States has been passed by the National Congress here.

The motion picture depicts the societies named as injecting an anti-religious spirit into the country and encouraging athletic games of non-sense where the participants "appear in public half-nude."

Suicide Attempt Fails

Mrs. Adeline Burke, 45, of Astor st., Brockton, attempted to end her life by inhaling illuminating gas when in City Hospital today and is expected to recover.

THIS IS LIFE

DEPRESSION'S CURE MAY BE SO DRASTIC AS TO SHOCK TRADITIONS

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

AS THE CONGRESS CONVENES, facing the necessity of dealing with the depression, the following letter, which I have just received from an elderly Lynn shopkeeper, is a somewhat innocent and pathetic commentary on the public state of mind. It follows:

"I think you do not get at the bottom of the evil that has caused this depression. Now, as an old-time merchant for 35 years, retiring last year, I have been a keen observer of the public and the times. Let us start about 1890, more than 35 years ago, when I opened up a small variety store here in Lynn on a capital of $100.

"It was at the end of the 1890s depression. After the first year in business my trade kept growing by leaps and bounds. In 20 years I reached the top. At that time I carried a $10,000 stock of merchandise. In those days there were very few vacant stores; everyone was doing business.

The whole attraction those days was the display of merchandise in the store windows. Everyone walked. On a nice day you would see a line of women pushing baby carriages, pushing down one side and coming back on the other with anything from one in a dozen bundles in the carriage. Then came the moving pictures for an attraction. The people came out, not to buy, but to attend the movies. They were packed in by the thousands. They would leave at 5 o'clock or 5.30 in a mad rush to get home to get hubby's supper. That condition prevails today.

Walks Might Save Lives, Too

"Then the worse end of the two, the automobile, came into existence. The percentage of people walking today is very small. The only chance today for the merchant to sell his goods is to those that walk. Riding in an automobile, people go by so quickly that they do not see the goods on display in the windows.

"Today there are more people dying of heart disease than ever before, both young and old. If we could get the people to walk a mile a day to offset that disease, there would be more shopkeepers and other people. Also if our young men went to the high schools would wear hats, instead of going bareheaded, it would help the hat industry. All these things would help to kill Mr. Depression."

The letter, from a retired, elderly Lynn street shopkeeper, seems to me an interesting pattern or sample of what has been said and written during the past two years. The argument depends on the fact that things today are not what they were in the past. If we only might turn the clock back, we should be all right.

Yet upon second thought even our correspondent, I imagine, would have to admit certain things. That his business probably continued to prosper for a considerable time after the move and the automobile became common. That even today the evening strolls, when the shops are open, are just as full of people strolling as they ever were.

Auto Widens Trade Area

Little stores may have suffered, but the big stores have thrived and expanded and multiplied. Automobiles have brought thousands from a wide country area into the local metropolis and the moving picture has been often the main reason for their coming. And they have spent money, too. There certainly seem as many children to be bought for, whether they ride in motors or baby-buggies.

No, I am afraid my Lynn correspondent's diagnosis is too simple and his implied remedy—a return to the blessed conditions of the nineties and early twenties—hundreds—impossible. Yet many and many a politician and politician is saying the same things, in effect. He is saying that we have departed from the business principles of the fathers and must get back to them. He is still speaking of the depression as if it were a common cold with which we could deal.

Yet many and many a politician and politician is saying the same things, in effect. He is saying that we have departed from the business principles of the fathers and must get back to them. He is still speaking of the depression as if it were a common cold with which we could deal.

Walter Lippmann, for instance, makes that categorical charge against Mr. Hoover. He cannot get it out of his head, says the brilliant writer for the Herald-Tribune, that the conditions of today were perfectly normal conditions. Therefore, he cannot be pushed into a statesmanlike program for ending it. Labor believes that the problem is simple. Wages must be kept up, even increased, in order that consumption may be kept up. Employers are certain that wages must be liquidated, so that prices may be brought down within the reach of a depleted buying public.

Cure May Be Drastic

The Western radicals are still thinking in terms of the farmer. The anti-protectionists in terms of prosperity through free trade. The bankers would make things better by putting Europe on her feet financially and letting up pay the bills. The Republicans seem willing to depend on private and local charity. The Democrats seem somewhat disposed to trust to federal action.

None of these ideas is essentially any different from our correspondent's notion that, if we abolished automobiles and movie theaters, retail trade would come back and all would be well. They are all simple panaceas. But it is perfectly possible that a simple panacea won't do; that the necessary readjustment may be a widespread, far-reaching, complex affair, one that runs counter to every deep-seated tradition and cherished ideal.

The great advance in 17th and 18th century natural science was based on the proposition that the simplest explanation of a given phenomenon was always the best. Nature, they thought, was by preference simple. Nowadays the scientists are engaged in upsetting in every direction the old hypotheses, finding them sketchy, inadequate and misleading.

The traditional individualism of the 19th century was a simple hypothesis, thought out to account for the comparatively simple conditions of trade and industry of that day. It is a pretty safe bet that it is no longer adequate. But Mr. Hoover seems to trust to it. Will his message today be anything more than a complex restatement of the ideas of our correspondent from Lynn? We sincerely hope so.

Four-Year Course to Aid School Teachers

ACTION TAKEN TO CUT LIST OF JOBLESS

Plans Made to Care for 170 of Unemployed Who Protested to Board

In a move to relieve unemployment conditions in the ranks of teachers the course at Teachers' College has been advanced from three years to four years in a decision today following the demand of 170 graduates that they be given jobs.

It was only five or six years ago that the Teachers' College of the city was a small institution with a few hundred students. It was then that the first class of graduates was sent out to the world.

A year has elapsed since the first class of graduates was sent out to the world. It was then that the first class of graduates was sent out to the world. It was then that the first class of graduates was sent out to the world.

Then a change came as the result of unemployment conditions among the school teachers. The college was then a small institution with a few hundred students. It was then that the first class of graduates was sent out to the world.

YEARD IN 'LUNG' CURES GIRL

Massachusetts General Hospital authorities today reported that a girl, 13, of North St., who had been in the hospital for a year, was cured of her lung trouble.

During the greater part of the year the girl has been in the hospital of a chronic respiratory disease, and she was not able to leave the hospital until she was cured.

She was taken from the hospital about a year ago, and she has been in the hospital ever since. She was cured of her lung trouble.

SERVICE TO GOD AND COUNTRY CARDINAL'S THEME THROUGH EVENTFUL LIFE

Cardinal O'Connell passed his 72nd birthday yesterday and after passing through a most eventful life, in the Catholic Church, he is now a most successful and happy man. His life has been a most successful one and he is in perfect physical health.

BISHOP OF BOSTON - 1906

RECTOR OF AMERICAN COLLEGE - ROME

FATHER O'CONNELL as a youth

This interesting camera history of William Cardinal O'Connell, covers his life from the days of his youth in Lowell, through the various steps of his elevation to a prince of the Roman Catholic Church. The Cardinal, dean of the American Hierarchy, today, on the feast of the Immaculate Conception, observes his 72nd birthday in excellent health.

MAYOR WARNS OF 'MILK TRUST' PLOT, BARS ONE CONCERN

CURLEY TELLS GRANGE PLAN WILL FAIL

Lays Price War to Scheme to Grab Business to the Ultimate Injury of Farmer

An attempt by a national milk company to get a monopoly on the milk business in New England was charged today by Mayor Curley.

This, he declared, is the reason for the succession of milk price reductions, which have lowered the price of milk to the 1917 level.

Mayor Curley said the milk company in question is the Massachusetts Milk Producers' Association, which is planning to get the milk business in New England by a price war.

"A nationally known dairy products company, through its representative here," the mayor said, "is attempting to obtain a monopoly on the milk business by threatening the milk companies with outside competition if they don't reduce their prices."

DAILY COMPANY HERE

"I ordered the board of health today not to allow a certain company to sell milk in this city. This company is the opening wedge in the fight to bring the chain stores, which supply a large portion of our citizens with milk, into line with their plan."

The idea these people have in mind is to have a good time for the present with the lowered price in price, and then step in, capture the industry, and make their own prices.

OTHERS TRIP, FAIR

"The dairy products companies referred to have stated through their local representative that it did not care what the board of health did here. Well, it will find it really gratifying with all the others that have tried to do the board in the past if it insists in carrying out the present plan."

The board of health will continue for three days in morning and afternoon sessions.

Marry-Go-Round

THE SWEET AND LOW DOWN
ON MODERN LOVE
By HELEN ROWLAND

A woman does not reach the pinnacle of fame until she can get a man to marry her. Helen Rowland, author of "Marry-Go-Round," writes: "I have known many women who have been married, but I have never known one who has been married and is not a failure."

When a woman is married, she is no longer a woman. She is a wife. And a wife is a failure. A woman who is married is a failure. A woman who is married is a failure. A woman who is married is a failure.

When a woman is married, she is no longer a woman. She is a wife. And a wife is a failure.

MANY READERS CONDEMN RAIL COMMISSION

By B. C. FORBES

PUBLIC OPINION, as reflected by communications to this column, is aroused at the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in its recent decision on the New York Central Railroad.

Admittedly, this is not a time for quarreling but a time for co-operation and compromise. The Interstate Commerce Commission is not a body for quarreling but a time for co-operation and compromise.

Short-selling has already been discussed here. How do the people feel regarding the Interstate Commerce Commission? Let the public speak for themselves.

Writes a Washington, D. C., same person.

The commission's indifference to the interest of the railroad operators and their continuous plugging up to the former and to organized labor is one of the worst spots in this country.

A railway supplies man writes in part:

"I am in hearty sympathy with what you have written regarding the commission. For I have seen the cruel results of the necessity of laying off men by the railroads. I have had men of twenty-five years' service in minor positions come into my office in despair, having given their best years of service and loyalty to their road, only to be forced out. That, I sincerely believe, is caused by the commission's restrictive forces."

Forcing Business to Truck Lines

From one of thousands of employees of the vital railway industry:

"I have been ready and willing to accept a reduction in wages since early in 1928. The time is at hand when, not only the employes but everyone else, must consider the fundamental principle of the railroad. Thousands of railroad men with homes and families are being taken out of service every day by the railway's restrictive forces and charges. Restriction is disrupting the home life and happiness of valuable employees and actually is forcing business to their worse competitors—the truck and the truck."

I. C. C. Nation's Worst Influence

From a large shipper:

"The worst influence in the country today is the I. C. C. They are, however, subject to investigation by the Senate. If anyone is to be made to stop the wings of the commission, it is the Senate. It is going to be a sorry country to live in. This New Eastern class decision has cost the railroad enormous sums for the setup alone."

"This I. C. C. needs a bump. It was supposed to correct unfair practices and to prevent unjust rates. It has certainly wandered astray. The railroads deserve a better break in spite of the world's war of the traffic managers. The depression was inevitable, but the continued depression can be traced to the I. C. C."

Purchasing Power Cut 2 Million

In a different vein:

"How the reduction of the wages of two million dollars received by one million railroad workmen by two hundred million a year—going to help the railroads is more than I can understand. How can reduction of purchasing power be beneficial to business?"

$9.60 Maintenance Men's Pay

From "A railroad worker":

"Are you aware that the railroads of the nation, the maintenance of way workers, have for months been existing on a wage of $9.60 per month? The only index of the existing real wage index are the train crew and the electrical men."

Removal of Members Suggested

From another letter:

"To attempt to improve the procedure of the commission would be a waste of time. The practical thing would be President Hoover to remove the whole lot of them on the grounds of obvious incompetence."

In it not salutary for public bodies to learn occasionally how they are regarded by the public?

The Wrong Answer

Dr. Conrad on Prohibition

The Rev. Dr. A. Z. Conrad of the Park Street Church said in his sermon Sunday night that the Republican Party "is doomed and damned if it goes wet."

It is perfectly preposterous, he said, that prohibition agents should be compelled to drink in order to get evidence. This puts them in the way of becoming chronic drunkards.

The prohibition officers show little zeal in their work, said Dr. Conrad.

Mr. Tarr, the Federal District Attorney, and Mr. Lewis, the Prohibition Administrator, were said by him not to be giving proper co-operation to Mr. Hollman, the Boston Police Commissioner.

The Coast Guard has fallen down on its job, according to Dr. Conrad.

Harold Wilson, once the prohibition agent, was said by him to have been chased out of Boston "by Cox and his crowd."

In short, said Dr. Conrad, "The whole thing is an abomination the way it is conducted today."

"Of all the fool asinine things, the greatest is the attempt of Liggett and his crowd to put the Republican Party of Massachusetts on a wet platform."

Nothing touched by the subtle hand of prohibition is right, it seems.

Therefore, the good doctor reasons, we must not alter prohibition, the cause of it all, but must alter everything else, including human nature, to make it coincide with prohibition!

True temperance, by will of the people, is the solution.

Christmas Joy and Duty

Hoarding Never Restores Prosperity

Governor Ely and Mayor Curley have issued proclamations urging the people to pursue a normal Christmas this year.

Christmas has been for 2000 years the time of peace on earth to men of goodwill.

We buy and we give.

We intend, in normal times, to bestow happiness upon our families and upon others.

Hoarding has never restored prosperity.

Many people, with fixed salaries and income, are in a stronger position than ever before, their ability to buy enhanced by the low-price market.

Our job and station in life are dependent upon the buying power of others, just as their jobs and income depend upon what we spend.

So, let us buy this Christmas the things we buy in normal times.

We will be bringing happiness to others in this time of peace on earth.

And we will be making the economic position secure not only of others but of ourselves as well.

Let us begin today for a Merry Christmas for all.

"Equal to the Strongest"

Providing for the common defense is the constitutional duty of the Congress and not of any one political party.

It is heartening, therefore, to have the assurance of the next Democratic chairman of the House Committee on Naval Affairs—Representative Vinson of Georgia—that his committee will not divide along party lines if he can prevent it.

"Ours has never been a political committee," says the Georgia congressman. "We have always been in favor of a navy adequate for national defense."

There is no longer any doubt what the strength of such a navy should be. We have agreed by treaty that our navy shall be "equal to the strongest."

Congress should authorize the building of such a navy now—then build it as rapidly as the fiscal condition of the government will permit.

And the Republican members of Congress should co-operate with the Democratic members in the conduct of an impartial investigation of the Hoover administration's efforts for the last three years to prevent the building up of our navy to equality with the strongest—to equality with the British navy.

The people are entitled to all the facts that the most thorough congressional investigation can develop. It is their navy and they are well aware that the responsibility for its maintenance rests primarily with Congress.

Be Sure It's a Deer, First

The deer season is open in Massachusetts this week.

Soon the bold hunter will parade back into town with a dead deer tied to the mudguard of his car as the trophy of his bravery.

No doubt this word of caution will go unheeded.

But human life is too precious to be sacrificed in the interest of this vanity.

Be certain your "deer" is not your father, your brother, or your hunting companion, or a stranger who has signed his death warrant by coming within range of your gun!

20 Years Prince of Church

All faiths join today in felicitations to William Cardinal O'Connell, who observes his 72nd birthday, with real undiminished and an energy unbounded.

Follower of Christ and leader of men, the Cardinal recently passed the 20th milestone in his service as prince of the Catholic Church—an example to all mankind.

May the years continue to rest lightly upon him as he meets with bountiful response the demands made upon him as dean of the American hierarchy and Archbishop of Boston.

'Twould Mean the Dawn of a New Day

"A real way to relieve unemployment," wrote Arthur Brisbane, "is to give employment."

A gigantic scheme of essential public improvements, planned and promptly STARTED, would create the needed jobs for the jobless.

A $5,000,000,000 Prosperity Bond Issue promptly authorized would provide the funds necessary for such a scheme.

The Administration, having failed to act, Congress this week is brought face to face with the question of unemployment relief.

A Prosperity Loan would solve the problem. Prompt action by Congress would mean the dawn of a new day for the jobless millions rebuffed by the Administration.

There's One Sign They Don't Want to See

The traditional American policy has been to MIND OUR OWN BUSINESS, STAY OUT OF FOREIGN ENTANGLEMENTS, AND ATTEND STRICTLY TO AMERICA'S NEEDS AND PROBLEMS.

Until the arrival at Washington of the present set, most of our Head Servants found plenty to engage their attention AT HOME.

There's still plenty to do AT HOME. But an epidemic of "INTERNATIONALISM," a serious disorder, has struck the present Administration.

This strange disease blinds and deafens those afflicted to the woes and wails of his kin; it causes those afflicted to exhibit grave concerns for the tribulations of all of Europe, Asia, in fact, for the whole world EXCEPT HOME FOLKS AND THEIR PROBLEMS.

"Internationalism" causes the Administration to hand out sonorous phrases instead of jobs to the six million jobless who walk our streets facing a Winter of distress.

"Internationalism" causes the Administration to hand out a finely spun plan to BUY money to the millions of jobless who are UNABLE TO PAY RENT.

"Internationalism" causes the Administration to scuttle the Navy, cripple the Army, undermine the Coast Defenses, and hamstring the Air Corps in a false economy move while maneuvering to aid international bankers by shifting the entire cost of the Great War onto the backs of American taxpayers.

"Internationalism" blinds the Administration to the tragedy of Prohibition at home but NOT to the tragedy in Manchuria.

Congress, if it will, can save the nation from the blight of "internationalism" by prescribing and ADMINISTERING several potent doses of real, old-fashioned AMERICANISM.

New York Day by Day

Behind the Scenes

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—One cannot help wondering the reaction of Bernhard, Mansfield and other valet troupes to accommodation for players in recently built play houses. In old days, dressing rooms were often pigsties and back stage atmosphere had the depressing mien of a swamp.

The other night I visited behind scenes at Earl Carroll's modernistic temple, perhaps the finest playhouse in the world. The memory is a confusing whirl of glittering mirrors, marbled ramps, sharp angled decorations, the best of bolors and a phantasmagoria of powdered flesh.

Entrance was through dark tunnel now and then flashing light like a sunburst in a catalogue. Then suddenly emerging into a series of brilliantly lit salons, suggesting gilt halls of Versailles during dawning days—privileged gentlemen in stilt breches, hoop-skirted ladies, Pierrots, Columbian.

A heavily kohlbed magdalen with blood lacquered nails, consumed at a man, puffed a cigarette while trying to teach me backgammon as she waited her cue. This was the "Orchid Room"—intended a delicate salmon pink—paralysed in chromium. In former days such rooms were known as Green Rooms.

Chorus ladies now receive telephone calls and call friends backstage without cost. Cigarettes and orchid-based writing paper are free. Constantly above the hum of conversation was the broadcast to each dressing room of proceedings on the stage. One could hear the rattle of Will Mahoney's flying feet.

Lillian Roth's softly crooning madrigals and the resounding clump of comedy cut-ups.

Call boys no longer scurry to dressing rooms to rap warnings of cues. A concealed microphone broadcasts them clearly. There's no display of discipline. But woe to those who miss the call! Instant dismissal is the price and no appeal. Such minutages go on a permanent "b" list.

Mosaic tiled runways to the stage are lined with a rig-as-of mirrors at all angles en route and detect defects in costumes. If any, and remedy them before reaching the wings.

In the bewitching clusters of brightened ladies in varying states of disfigurement, I tried to assume an attitude of utter fascination in celling inspecting. Yet when the melancholy Earl introduced his squariness, I had to look at them squarely. They glance up from makeup tables to meet one's gaze with diamantine naivete, tugging at a stocking, adjusting a bralette or sundry unmentionables with no fluster whatever. Nor is there a suggestion of brasserie. To them back stage papers are one of the professional crosses. And the show must go on.

Shortly before the microphone broadcast: "Final in ten minutes!" there appeared a bevy of those who were to be the stars of the evening, entranced by familiarity with show girls. They were to the man in full dress, silk basted, debonair—just dropping in a moment to be flattered, chuckled under the chin or receive a hurrie hup. Every musical show has its group of such regulars show night. After these casual intimacies they toddle off with Champagne grins—grapes than all get out.

'None so Blind as Those That Will Not See'

By Claude G. Bowers

THERE IS NOT the least probability of any attempt by Congress at a general reduction of the tariff during the coming session because of the division of government power between the parties. This, however, does not save Senator Smoot from an attack of hysteria at the thought of touching the sacrosanct.

Denouncing the Democrats for even suggesting tariff reform, he makes the remarkable statement that "foreign imports are encroaching upon the American market at a time when domestic industry is unemployed and millions are unemployed."

The truth is that there has been an appalling decrease in customs revenue because of the loss of foreign trade, and that the crippling of domestic industry and the loss of employment by from six to seven million men, the most serious and sobering depression in all our history, has come at a time when we have the highest tariff rates we have ever had.

He knows that this prohibitive act he sponsored has resulted in the raising of tariff barriers against the products of our factories and fields by the other nations.

He knows that this is depriving us of the foreign markets on which we once profited, and that the decrease in production in factories is measured by the decrease in demands for our goods from other nations, and that this decrease in demand is reflected in the decrease in the number of workers needed. He knows that factories are building branches in other nations to escape the curse of the Smoot rates, and that these branches are employing not American but foreign workers.

Charles Mitchell, of the National City Bank, appearing before the same committee the other day, reminded the statesmen that making loans to Europe and then making it impossible for the trade with the debtor nations does not make for the creditor's comfort. He talked like a Democrat—however he votes.

The action of the Tariff Commission in recommending the reducing of some rates that mean little or nothing, while upholding the rates on cement and lumber, is just what is to be expected under the present system of making the commission with men subservient to the antiquated theories of the Administration. Didn't a former President throw the recommendations of a former commission for a decrease in the sugar rate into the waste basket when he gave pig iron an increase of 50%?

One day Mr. Hoover spoke feelingly of the owned home, and, in the midst of the whole-sale evictions for the non-payment of rent, urged people to build their homes; and the next day he stood like Gibraltar against any reduction in rates on cement and lumber that determine the cost of building.

The trouble with some statesmanship is that it has no coordination.

And it has another trouble, too—it gets its political energy from the speeches of "Big Iron" Kelly.

Mitchell Talked Like a Democrat

Such a statement would seem incredible but for the fact that Mr. Mitchell's mind has become confused and set in their prejudices. "The higher the tariff the greater the prosperity"—old stuff now and thoroughly discredited by facts.

Not from the Democrats, but from a Republican industrialist we quote:

"The theory of high protective tariff as an aid to business and employment breaks down completely when a nation like the

Playing Father

I notice when they're playing house, Miss Janet wants to be The mother in the flowing gown to sit and serve the tea. And always there's an argument that endless seems to run. No child likes playing father, for it isn't any fun!

Now one will be the servant girl, and one will be the nurse, And very gravely day by day these roles will they rehearse, But when they come to settle which will play the father's part, As sure as I am telling tales a quarrel's bound to start.

It seems these little mimics, aping grownups' ways and airs, Have learned that it is father who must carry the chair, It's father who must do the work and all the errands run, And if they make you be the man you can't have any fun.

I chuckle as I watch them, with Miss Janet pouring tea And giving orders to the child who's imitating me. I love this childish drama, but I'd tell 'em every one, That after all their father really has a lot of fun!
